

The Arms & Armour Heritage Trust – A fund Raising Event

Who Won at Waterloo?'

A lecture by Major General Ewan Carmichael CBE on Tuesday 17 May at the Guards' Museum, Wellington Barracks, Birdcage Walk, London SW1E 6HQ.

The lecture starts at 12.00 accompanied with refreshments. The cost is £ 30, purchased via Eventbrite, of which £28.46 goes direct to the Charity to help fund educational projects.

<https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/d/united-kingdom--essex/who-won-at-waterloo/?page=1>

It is a standing joke among visitors to the battlefield of Waterloo that, judging by the souvenirs on sale, perhaps Napoleon did not actually lose. On the other hand, in the English speaking world, one might be inclined to think that the Duke of Wellington was the principal winner. However, in recent decades it has become increasingly recognized that the victory at Waterloo was not solely British. This talk will review the part played by the Prussians in attempt to strike an appropriate balance.

The Prussian attack on Plancenoit by Adolf Northern 1864